Analysis of gas chromatography (GC) data

GC is an important technique in identifying chemical compounds in food and beverage industry not only for ensuring quality purposes both in terms of food safety as well as sensory evaluation.

Goal of the project is to first choose and second set up a strategy to analyse GC data by means of real world data for later lab use in the given context.

Supervisor: Hannes Petermeier